The Theory & Practice in Rural Education editors would like to invite authors to submit manuscripts for forthcoming issues. Theory & Practice in Rural Education is a peer-reviewed journal published electronically twice yearly, in spring and fall. We are predominantly interested in manuscripts related to promising and effective educational practices in rural schools, educator preparation for rural P-16 institutions, and issues related to distinct rural populations. We invite several types of articles and/or multimedia creations, including those with an international focus: practice-based, educational innovations, partnerships for education, research-based articles, review articles, and book reviews focusing on rural education.

If you are interested, please refer to the Author Guidelines on our website for further information on the submission process.

All proposals will be subject to double-blind peer review.
